

From: Christy Bleu <cbleu@mhl.org>
Sent: Wednesday, April 28, 2021 12:45 PM
To: Dockets
Subject: Docket number: MC2021-78

If your intention is to make it difficult for my students to get a hold of books, or for me to order books for my classroom, congratulations you are on the way to success. If you value an educated and literate America, then maybe there are other ways you can acquire revenue, rather than make it so shipping rates become a hindrance. I personally believe that we should make education as accessible as possible. Scholastic Book orders should not have to raise shipping rates in order to do that, in fact, if shipping prices increase, parents will not buy books for their students. That is a huge step backward for literacy. Books need to be in the hands of children. Not in a warehouse, because no one can afford the cost of shipping. Hands off Education. It is hard enough on educators already. It is hard enough on parents and kids, too.

--

Christy Bleu
Fourth Grade Language Arts ROCKS! at MHLT

---

P 715 356 5206 ext. 2166 E cbleu@mhl.org

---

Create your own email signature

This email has been sent from the mhl.org domain.